About This Game

In the near future the world is consumed by the great crisis. The resources of the planet are to end, the traditions mean nothing anymore. It leads to many wars, one after another - places where one could live in peace and not worry about the fact that he can be shot immediately were almost gone.

The planet was ruined. Years of endless wars almost destroyed countries which we know today. More and more powerful armies were created. The first non-governmental army was called The Opposition. Its' views were clear enough - its main purpose was to create a new society. Without war, without violence, without tyrants. But it was possible only by complete destruction of the old world and civilization.

The remains of the largest contries were forced to create an organization that could repulse the Opposition. Its name was the Alliance. The Alliance's leaders believed that the Opposition's actions would lead to complete destruction of the Earth and dissapearance of humanity. They belived that because of such actions the restoration of civilization in the future would be impossible. The Alliance protected knowledge that was accumulated by humanity during it's existence. It's leaders considered that the humanity should stop that war.

You are the commander of the Alliance. Your goal is to take control of the bases in the hot spots and to resist the advancing enemy.

If you have the space this is a must play. Being able to physically walk through multiple rooms uninterrupted by teleportation or analog movement really tricks your brain into thinking you're inhabiting a real space. Be sure to have your friends and family try it too. :). Gross Knock-off game.. ADVENTURE TIME. Interesting features unlocked with this DLC, too bad it's not included in The game gold edition version that's why i bought it separately and don't be fooled by the image of this DLC, that's a pure \u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665t, there is no nissan silvia in this game, and you can't make your car looks like that, not even close yeap, still no Spoilers, no body kits.. need more improv. it is very laggy, plz fix, thank you. this game is sh#% i played for a few minutes and quickly realized it was worth nothing

If you like games that mind "violates" you, then this is your game. So um...this is way interesting. Yup! Yea!! I should have tried the demo first, because straight-up visual novels are just not my thing.

From the description and title, I expected a game of stats training and meaningful dialogue choice challenges. PANIC is an endless sequence of a dozen pages of fluffy text, then an inconsequential dialogue choice. After playing a few in-game weeks of just mashing the advance button, it did not feel like my character was at all changed due to my choices.

And the game is setup to do multiple playthroughs, because you are stuck in your school clubs once selected. It is hard to imagine playing through this again, because it just takes so long getting through all the banal text, for each day. I realize the text is supposed to be funny, but I just found it boring. There was no connection with the characters, so I had trouble feeling anything about the story text. Reading the text becomes a headache, as the game also shakes the screen on every third page.

That said, I think this is an honest effort, and the art is nice and the text is proofread. I just could not imagine recommending this game. I played this game on an ubuntu 18.10 system, with an xbox type controller. I had one technical glitch, where the font on the "weekly tests" did not display correctly. This game is written with the RenPy Engine, and the install size is 950 MB. I like this game but unfortunately I'm allergic to maths.. Giant. Mech. PVP. VR. Do I need to say anything else?. the right mouse button does not work. any ideas?. Disclaimer: This is a review of a single, free work, not an endorsement of any future works of this developer. I know nothing about the developer and chose to take artistic merit into account because this game was made for its own sake and not for profit.

This story/game is pretty great. It's subtle and was obviously well thought-out (but it's also a bit arbitrary-seeming if you are the type that doesn't believe in telling small lies to your lover).

The variations/endings are not hard to sniff out if you give it 1-3 hours of your time. What are you? What defines a person? Is a person that's exactly the same as you, still you? Rare is the story where you find yourself as a protagonist and antagonist in turns.

Even if you're not the type of gamer to like Visual Novels, give this one a chance if you're a fan of mystery and/or horror genres.. My computer is a very potato ones, so I can't do any guessing. The runs fine until I do multiple clicks and it crashed. Need a lot of fixes instead of new items, so keep it up! A little is better than nothing at all. But I will change to No if the problem is still not fix in a long-term.. Game is literally too hard for me to even finish, though I think I got close.

Loved every second I spent with this one. Gorgeous pixel art, clever use of the typing aspect as a way of framing the narrative, and much more.

Highly recommended. Even if you can't beat the Exorcist in the Vatican Gardens.. I have played this game actively for nearly 2 years and i think im in a good position to give a fair review of not only the game but how it is developing also.

GAMEPLAY: I think this game lacks some engagement with the match engine and tactics, some Match engines i feel i had figured out somewhat but patches can often throw my knowledge into the wind.. in general it can be hard to find out why you have lost etc. Having said that, I have quite a good team and it shows with how many games I win, so in general the better teams are winning and i do feel in control of how well I am doing, for example i can probably tell you within 2 positions where i will finish in the league and i trust the consistency of my team, heck i can usually tell after i make a transfer that it might cost me a title, or a cup... this game is really all about the small details and great management is rewarded! There is no P2W features which makes me want to never stop playing this game as I dont need money to be one of the best, WHICH IS GREAT! On gameplay i would give a 8.5/10, improvements to understading tactics and a 2D ME would make it comfortably a 10!

TRANSFERS: I like the transfer system, it rewards good scouting, the youth release is fair, planning for the future and bringing youth players through is rewarded, it is not too hard to make a good profit from players (if you do it right!) and there are plenty of bargains to be had. There is often complains of how the top teams are bound to stay at the top because they got here first and blah blah.. you get the point. However i have seen teams with a value of 30m compete with my team of over 100m, on several occasions, and eventually if managed correctly I think its easily possible to catch up. 10/10 for the transfer system for me.

COMMUNITY: Mostly the community is good, the chat room is kinda active but really i feel with no moderators it can often descend into mindless trolling or just arguments (Which i am definatly not immune too!) but i think work could be done to improve the chat rooms and general system for players to communicate. 4/10

OTHER FEATURES: There are some other things to do other than play games and make transfers, but they are really quite boring (such as the legends game), there is not really a reward for this that aids your team and it is not forced though. 5/10

DEVELOPMENT: The Development team have been somewhat slow in delivering what was said and when it was said... I have heard the reasoning on podcasts though and to protect the NO P2W theme with this game i 100% agree in not giving in for the extra funding, it really would kill the game and im glad they see that and always have. They have made good changes for the most part, i am really enjoying the extra competetive games since group stages have been added to cups (my favourite addition for a good while) and every few months I am pleasantly reminded that this game is still a work in progress with a new feature. I would say something like 6/10 due to the somewhat false promises, but given the reason and the fact that i know more features would be flowing if the funding would come in, i think a 8/10 is more fair.

As a quick round up, this game is really brilliant, something special that i really hope can stay around for the long run as i believe the mass market potential is HUGE and rightly so. NO P2W is the future of gaming and this is the ONLY football MMO i know off that truly has believed in that! If your ready to commit and struggle to a steady grind to the top then you should purchase this game right now, if you like to throw some money and make your players score, not the game for you.

thanks for reading hope it was useful! TJ
